The sudden transition from face-to-face to online teaching and learning has presented many issues and challenges for educators and practitioners all around the world. For that reason, enhanced awareness of the specific techniques of online teaching is a must!

Teachers with a qualification in Online Teaching will be in demand!

The Aims of the Course
This short training programme is designed for all teachers and trainers who would like to acquire new skills and gain experience in online teaching. In essence, the actual teaching has not completely changed, but the internet offers new possibilities to enable teachers to enrich their lessons and to help learners overcome the problems of learning by themselves in front of their screens. In this course, teachers will learn how to transfer their teaching skills to the online environment.

At the end of the course teachers will receive the ICC Online Teaching Certificate.

This course will be offered on a regular basis as there will continue to be a need for online language courses even after the present-day situation has passed. .For example: university authorities are already planning so-called "hybrid semesters"; business professionals are discovering the flexibility of being able to acquire new skills online, and many language experts agree that language teaching does not actually need to be 100% face-to-face.

Therefore, gaining the necessary knowledge and skills will certainly offer all teachers and trainers the opportunity to share and guide others in the new remote learning world.

What will teachers achieve by the end of the course?

- They will develop the key skills needed to enable them to plan and deliver online lessons.

- They will be able to adapt the face-to-face teaching skills they already have to the online environment.
- They will be able to use technology with confidence in their classrooms.
