

ICC The International Language Association
AN INTRODUCTION TO TEACHING LANGUAGES ONLINE
29th May to 26th June 2021

The Aims of the Course

This short training programme is designed for all teachers and trainers who would like to acquire new skills and gain experience in online teaching. In essence, the actual teaching has not completely changed, but the internet offers new possibilities to enable teachers to enrich their lessons and to help learners overcome the problems of learning by themselves in front of their screens. In this course, teachers will above all learn how to transfer their teaching skills to the online environment.

At the end of the course teachers will receive the ICC Online Teaching Certificate.

This course will be offered on a regular basis as there will continue to be a need for online language courses and skilled online teachers even after the present-day situation has passed. For example, university authorities are already planning so-called “hybrid semesters”; business professionals are discovering the flexibility of being able to acquire new language skills online, and many language experts agree that language teaching does not actually need to be 100% face-to-face.

Therefore, gaining the necessary knowledge and skills will certainly offer all teachers and trainers the opportunity to share and guide others in the new remote learning world.

Who is the course for?

The course is for all language teachers who would like to transfer their face-to-face teaching skills to an online context.

What will you achieve by the end of the course?

- You will develop the key skills needed to enable you to plan and deliver online lessons.
- You will be able to adapt the face-to-face teaching skills you already have to the online environment.
- You will be able to use technology with confidence in your classrooms.
